2010 FIFA World Cup South Africa™ Behind the Scenes Now available

The Media Circus

This is the story of how different elements of the media covered the FIFA World Cup™ in South Africa. We explore some of the sophisticated developments like 3D, Ultra Motion cameras, Heli-tele and the Spider-Cam. We also eavesdrop on the quick-fire production of multilingual mobile phone coverage as well as analyse the skill and speed of stills cameramen and commentators. We examine how FIFA and its host broadcaster made this FIFA World Cup™ in South Africa the most comprehensive coverage ever – through the Dream Team Outside Broadcast match concept; the International Broadcast Centre where 2700 people and 60 nationalities serviced the needs of the world's broadcasters; and how the 32 FIFA TV Team crews built relationships with the teams they were assigned to – and how the teams themselves coped with those media demands. We also look at the broadcasters themselves – the all night schedules of Televisa and TV Azteca of Mexico; the co-operation between German giants ARD and ZDF and Globo's strength and challenges amongst others. It is fast moving, entertaining and often surprising, highlighting some obvious talent and revealing some little known skills and expertise.

Our South Africa – 2010 Hopes and Dreams

Filmed during the 2010 FIFA World Cup™, Our South Africa – 2010 Hopes and Dreams, focuses on a wide range of individuals spanning across the Rainbow Nation for whom the FIFA World Cup™ had a special significance. Travelling across the country, "Our South Africa", captures a unique moment in the evolution of the nation in this post-apartheid era, with the film reflecting the realities of life, while also celebrating the magnificent diversity of the country. We meet a wide cast of characters including – Tokyo Sexwale, a former political prisoner and footballer on Robben Island and now a government minister, Jimmy Augousti, former player now club owner and Danny Jordaan, CEO of the World Cup Organising Committee. The issues raised by these characters range widely from black empowerment and nation building, to how Ghana eventually carried the hopes of a continent.

Match 64

'Match 64' tells the full story of what happened at Soccer City on July 11th 2010 – the day the FIFA World Cup™ Final was held on African soil for the very first time, a day that would break worldwide television audience records, a day that would guarantee a new winner of the FIFA World Cup™ – a day South Africa would remember forever. For the very first time, this film gets under the skin of what it takes to put on a FIFA World Cup™ Final, the organisation, the hospitality, the media. From sunrise to sunset and beyond, 'Match 64' follows not only the two teams and the match referee, but a whole range of characters whose contribution went beyond the game itself and reveals an intimate portrayal of a country whose time has come, and whose stadium is the setting where dreams were realised.

FIFA World Cup™ Film Collection 1930–2006

The past comes back to life, with the depth of coverage, close-up intimacy and dramatic perspective that is unique to these films – the greatest archive source of the magic and unforgettable moments of FIFA World Cup™ history.

The fifteen Official Films of the FIFA World Cup™ 1930–2006 offer a unique, high quality archive of the FIFA World Cup™ over 80 years of its history.

From the tense last moments of “Goal”, the colour record of England’s only FIFA World Cup™ victory in an era when television was black and white, to the glorious sweep and drama of the 35mm filming of “Hero”, the film of Mexico 86 which focused on Maradona’s finest and most controversial hour, here are films which stand the test of time.

While television provides a complete record, the films fill many other commercial purposes, which make them valuable not just to networks, but to production companies, sponsors and advertisers. The film provides some of the best archive material, offering close-up and slow motion, creating mood, showcasing an incident or capturing a key moment in sharp focus.

FIFA Films can research shots, provide screeners for viewing and supply the material you select in broadcast quality format.

The Official Film Collection provides the ideal build-up programming as well as a rich source of clip material for documentaries and other commercial purposes and after each World Cup is over, the collection lives on, as a superb archive and rich source of inspiration for the future. The FIFA World Cup™ Film Collection 1930–2006 is available exclusively through FIFA Films.

1930–Uruguay–The 1930 FIFA World Cup™

Official Film – 14’ EN/FR/ES/DE

A unique and historically valuable addition to the Official Film Collection, these 14 minutes of material predate television and provides both black and white and colour coverage of the first ever FIFA World Cup™. There are five minutes of material from the final in colour, providing a record of Uruguay’s victory in 1930.

1954–Switzerland–German Giants–89’ EN

Starting with the FIFA World Cup™ finals in Switzerland in 1954, we see the red-hot favourites Hungary, led by the legendary Puskas eventually beaten by West Germany 3–2 in a classic final.

1958–Sweden–Hinein– 82’ EN

The 1958 finals, held in Sweden, saw the emergence of a new superstar in Pelé. This 17-year-old wonder player led the Brazilians to a 5–2 final triumph over the host nation.

1962–Chile–Viva Brazil–88’ EN

Chile was the venue for the 1962 finals, where holders Brazil were expected to regain their crown. The host, Chile, took them all the way in an epic semi-final, but the classy Brazilians eventually beat Chile 4–2 and went on to beat another surprise package, Czechoslovakia, 3–1 in a one-sided final.

1966–England–Goal–100’ EN

The only full colour record of the 1966 FIFA World Cup™. England was expected to perform well in 1966, playing on home ground. After tough, tense matches against Portugal and Argentina, England eventually overcame West Germany in the final 4–2. The team was helped, in no small measure, by a historic final hat-trick by Geoff Hurst and superb defending and attacking from Bobby Moore and Bobby Charlton.

Continues over the page

1970 – Mexico – The World at their feet – 92' EN

The 1970 finals saw the emergence of probably the greatest team the world has ever seen, in the all-conquering form of Brazil. Pelé was playing in his last finals and his touch, vision and goal prowess combined with Jairzinho's amazing feat of scoring in every round, propelled the Brazilians to an irresistible 4–1 final victory over an overwhelmed Italy.

1974 – Germany – Heading for glory – 89' EN

The 1974 finals in West Germany saw the emergence of "Total Football" in the shape of the classy Dutch led by the legendary Johan Cruyff. The Dutch swept all before them until they came up against the solid hosts in the final. Beckenbauer led West Germany to a tense 2–1 victory.

1978 – Argentina – Campeones – 91' EN

Argentina, as hosts in 1978, were under great pressure to succeed. Amidst passionate supporters, they progressed to the finals with a wonderful blend of attacking football and tough defending. The unlucky Dutch, now lacking Cruyff's sublime skills, were the fall guys once again in the Final, losing 3–1 in a classic clash of styles.

1982 – Spain – G'ole – 97', with Sean Connery EN

Brazil was expected to beat Italy with ease in a group decider, but did not count on Paolo Rossi wrecking their plans with two great opportunist goals, enabling Italy to win a classic match 3–2. The Italians eventually went on to win the tournament with a 3–1 victory over a West German side.

1986 – Mexico – Hero – 83', with Michael Caine EN

Mexico had just recovered from a devastating earthquake, but the nation put on a great tournament and Argentina, inspired by Maradona, justified "favourite" status. The epic quarter-final with England generated Maradona's most controversial goal. West Germany won through to the Final, but Argentina was waiting for them and won a classic final 3–2, to fulfil Maradona's expected destiny and lift the FIFA World Cup™ trophy once more for Argentina.

1990 – Italy – Soccer Shoot-Out – 100' with Edward Woodward EN

Italia '90 was another fascinating tournament, a melting pot of different styles, cultures and techniques. The biggest tournament of its time saw the emergence of the African nations with the free-flowing Cameroon capturing everyone's hearts. The final was tight and not for the squeamish, but the well-drilled and better-disciplined Germans prevailed 1–0 winners to claim the crown for the third time.

1994 – Two billion hearts – 106' EN

In 1994, the FIFA World Cup™ came to the USA for the first time in history and set the country alight, giving "soccer" a tremendous boost in the world's biggest market. Audiences were treble the previous highest ever achieved for "soccer" in the USA. This film offers an original view of the razzmatazz and vigour of the first US-staged event and captures the agony of the penalty shoot-out between Brazil and Italy that decided the world title.

1998 – France – La Coupe de Gloire – 86' with Sean Bean EN

The French team – on home soil – was always going to be in contention for the title of World Champion. It did not disappoint its fans. France '98 was not short on drama or controversy, in equal measure and this is captured most effectively in this film. The 1998 film was shot on Super 16mm film and includes the most complete and extensive coverage ever, with each match being filmed from more angles than any previous film.

2002 – Korea/Japan – Seven Games from Glory – 120' EN

A World Cup of shocks and surprises, making history from start to finish. It was the first World Cup in Asia and the first to be co-hosted by two countries. The official film captures the unique spirit of this event in 120 minutes of football – on the pitch and behind the scenes. This is one of few official films able to offer a hint of the world behind the dressing room door – Senegal's victory celebrations, Mexico's prayer and team talk and the referees debriefing.

2006 – Germany – The Story of the 2006 FIFA World Cup™ – 93' EN/FR/ES

The 2006 FIFA World Cup, hosted by Germany, culminated in a dramatic finish with Italy defeating France on penalties in Berlin to make it Italy's fourth world crown. If Zinedine Zidane's red card was the Final's defining image, Italy's triumph would be remembered as a team effort with ten different "Azzurri" players finding the net. It was also a special month for Germany, the goals of Miroslav Klose helping secure third place in a tournament memorable for the festival mood across the host country.

All of these classic, historic moments can be re-lived again with the incomparable FIFA World Cup™ Film Collection. A Collection that tells the story of the world's greatest football tournament with the style, experience and coverage that it deserves, capturing all of the passion, tears and triumph for future generations of football fans.

FIFA World Cup™ Stories

6 x 30 minute series

The FIFA World Cup™ is rich in stories, legends and history. A documentary series looks in depth at the most intriguing stories of the last 80 years of this event.

The FIFA World Cup™ provides a rich vein of programme material, contained exclusively within FIFA Films, the world's greatest assembly of quality film and television coverage from past tournaments.

FIFA Films is now working with top directors and production houses to make full use of its golden heritage of visual material, to create a range of high quality offerings for television. Stories, legends and history – what the FIFA World Cup™ is all about?

“FIFA World Cup™ Stories” take a series of intriguing angles to provide new insight into some of the most fascinating stories in FIFA World Cup™ history. The series of six half-hour programmes includes:

Holland's Quest EN

Holland has never won the world's greatest football trophy, yet it has often fielded world-beating teams. This programme re-examines Holland's two most focused attempts – in 1974 and 1978 – to win the FIFA World Cup™, when the Dutch introduced for the first time the concept of “Total Football”. The programme also explores how Holland has continually entertained and enthralled football fans at subsequent events, while the “Holy Grail” of football continues to elude its grasp.

African Odyssey EN

The spectacular rise of African football on the World Cup stage has led many to speculate “when” an African nation will win the FIFA World Cup™. From the difficult early lessons of the 1970's through to the emergence of the dazzling skills and flair of Cameroon, Morocco and Senegal, the story of a continent in waiting.

Young Shooting Stars EN

One of the most exciting aspects of this great event is that – time and again – it introduces a new cast of young football prodigies to a world audience. Pelé, Maradona, Michael Owen and Ronaldo are among those who made a global impact in their teens. This programme is a tribute to genius on the football field and makes full use of the archive footage to remind us of the debuts of some of football's greatest names.

FIFA World Cup™ Shocks EN

The unexpected is what makes football exciting. Highlighting the most surprising and shocking results in FIFA World Cup™ history – from North Korea's humbling of mighty Italy in 1966 to Cameroon's explosive entrance onto the World Cup stage in 1990 with its victory over the holders Argentina – this programme captures the moment, the effect and aftershock of the unexpected result.

Golden Boot Legends EN

Every FIFA World Cup™ tournament has a Golden Boot winner. Some, such as Ronaldo in 2002 and Gerd Muller in 1970, were not unexpected. But who could have predicted the impact that Paulo Rossi, Davor Sukur and Gary Lineker would have had on FIFA World Cup™ history?

Penalty Shoot-Out! EN

The drawn out agony of the penalty shoot out is the football equivalent to a duel, with sudden death waiting for one side or the other. No moments in football are more intense. This programme covers the dramatic finales of some great matches, where one kick of a ball can throw a nation into joy or despair and turn players from heroes to villains. The ultimate drama.
